

How can the FCC in clear conscience punish a network for "indecentcy" like what happened at the Super Bowl this year, but refuse to take action against Sinclair for a clear violation of the law regarding election programming on public airwaves?